Murcia is Spain's smallest autonomous region and boasts a wealth of breathtaking landscape, from fertile land, vineyards and mountains to the world's largest saltwater lagoon, the Mar Menor.

Until recently, this tranquil region was overlooked by European visitors; though it has always been a favourite retreat for those in the know. All sorts of outdoor activity is favoured by the exceptional climate. The world-class golf courses attract keen players all year round. The beautiful and varied countryside is a firm favourite with walkers and climbers. Who could resist sailing, diving and swimming the gin clear, warm waters of the Mar Menor, or relaxing on the Blue Flag beaches?

Spain is among the healthiest places to live in Europe with an efficient health service available to all EU residents. Murcia's famous natural spas are renowned for their therapeutic effects. The tranquil city of Murcia, the capital of the region has Moorish origins and was founded in 825 by King Abderraman 11. The mulberry trees that line the city's streets speak of its past as a centre of the silk industry.

Of course the health benefits of the Mediterranean diet are well known. Murcia's local cuisine proves there is no need to sacrifice pleasure in the pursuit of good health.
